REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. Claims 56-80 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the cited prior art fails to teach the Applicant's claimed limitations as follows encoding a first signal representing content for generating a first encoded signal comprising successive independent decoding segments; encoding a second signal representing the content for generating a second encoded signal comprising successive independent decoding segments respectively corresponding to the independent decoding segments of the first encoded signal; and wherein the encoding used for said second signal is different from the encoding used for said first signal, delaying the first encoded signal with respect to the second encoded signal; generating a composite signal comprising the delayed first encoded signal and the second encoded signal; and channel encoding the composite signal such that the portion of the composite signal representing the first encoded signal is channel encoded differently from the portion of the composite signal representing the second encoded signal, wherein each independent decoding segment has an associated time duration; and in the delaying step, the first encoded signal is delayed by the associated time duration with respect to the second encoded signal, as well as, wherein each independent decoding segment has an associated time duration; and wherein the first encoded signal is delayed by the time duration with respect to the second encoded signal; and further comprising the step of delaying the extracted second encoded signal by the time duration, whereby the extracted first encoded signal and the extracted second encoded signal are realigned in time as substantially described and connected with the other functional language.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
